Rumored WSC Transfer To Rochester Unfounded

"Minnesota" Draws State-Wide Interest

The Winona County Statehood Centennial Committee musical comedy "Minnesota", written by Mr. Cliff Sakrey, will come to a rousing climax Sunday afternoon, Nov. 23, at the high school auditorium after a solid week of nine performances including Governor's Night, Tues., Nov. 18, and matinees for high school and grade school pupils of Winona and vicinity.

A cast and chorus of over one hundred includes members of the community, faculty, and students from Winona State College, St. Mary's, and St. Teresa, Winona High School and Cotter High.

Playing leading roles from Winona State are: Dorothy Magnus, member of the faculty, as Tillie; graduate students John Breitlow, Andre; Marie Miller Carroll, Christine; Peter Loughrey, old man; students Deanna Harders, Julie; Tom Chandler, Cooney; Norb Mills, Torgerson; Randall Stukel, Jerry; and understudies Jane Drenkhahn, Tillie; Charlotte Grafe, Latona.

This, the only Centennial production of "Minnesota" in the state during the year, is drawing audiences from a radius of 300 miles. It is the final event of state-wide interest during the Centennial year.

Overall producer and director for the show is Byron Holtz, professional musician and composer from St. Paul. Stage Manager is alumnus Tom Stoltman ('51).

Nineteen Chosen To Who's Who

Nineteen WSC students have been nominated to Who's Who. These students have been chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership, general citizenship, participation in extra-curricular and educational activities, and promise of future usefulness.

Their achievements will be included in Who's Who Among American College and University Students, to be published next summer.

Students selected include Richard Abraham, Helen Beberg, Carol Brosseth, Burton Ferrier, Charles Frisby, John Ganga, Janice Jacobson, H. Daniel Kilkelly, William Kuehl, Neal Lang, Eugene Nardini, Marlyce Nyberg, Dean Sanderson, Jeanne Stegen, Georgia Stiehl, Charlotte Svenningson, Mary Claire Thompson, Nancy Tubb, and Lawrence Whittier.

WSC is well represented in the musical comedy, "Minnesota", now being presented at the Senior High School Auditorium.

"My Three Angels" December Run Announced

Wenonah Players have begun rehearsals for their production, "My Three Angels," a three-act comedy.

The play is a comedy fantasy about three convicts, Joseph, Jules, and Alfred, who became practical and richly rewarding angels for a likeable French family consisting of father, mother, and daughter at Christmas time. The setting is French Guinea in 1910.

The characters in the play are Felix Ducotil, Jim Brust; Emilie Ducotil, Connie Glander; Madame Parole, Nancy Figy; Marie Louise, Doris Jick; Joseph, Richard Goetzman; Jules, Neal Lang; Alfred, Clarence Crum; Henri, Randall Stukel; Paul, Duane Urba; and the Lieutenant, Dale Karow.

Production dates are Dec. 8, 9, and 10 in Somsen Hall auditorium. Director is Mr. Jacques Reidelberger.

Newman Convention Held Here

Winona State College Newman Club, with Father Joseph LaPlante as chaplain, was host Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 8 and 9, to the annual Region II Newman Clubs convention in the North Central Province. About 125 college students attended the event.

Registration in Somsen Hall on Saturday at 8:30 a.m. was followed by a meeting of the club presidents. The first general session began with welcome addresses by Jim Scherber, general chairman, and by Father LaPlante and a brief introduction to the workshops by Helen Backus, panel chairman.

The workshop consisted of panel discussions led by local and visiting Newmanites. Following the workshops there was a general assembly which summarized the day's activities. The day was concluded by a banquet at the New Oaks. Convention activities were concluded on Sunday with Mass at the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart and breakfast at the Hotel Winona.

Swing Band director, Fred Heyer, looks on in admiration as guest star, Ron Keezer, performs.

According to S. J. Kryzsko, president of the State College Board, and Dr. Nels Minné, president of Winona State College, rumors of a possible transfer of WSC to Rochester have little basis in fact.

There has been no mention of such a move, Dr. Minné said, in the official minutes of the State Legislature's Interim Committee on Higher Education, nor has there been any official discussion of such a plan among Winona or Rochester education officials.

Unofficially, they "may be talking about it, but they aren't saying anything for publication", added Dr. Minné.

The proposal is under no official consideration.

The purpose of the Committee on Higher Education is to study methods for improving opportunities for higher education in Minnesota.

Touching off the furor over the proposed move was a report written by sports editor Scott Nelson in the Oct. 31 edition of the Mankato Free Press in which he quoted "an authoritative Winona source" as saying that a Rochester man or group had offered free 160 acres outside Rochester to the state for establishing a college.

Moving to Rochester, it was contended, would enable the college to serve more of southern Minnesota and would provide the college with plenty of land for future expansion.

Varied Activities Entertain Parents

About 250 parents participated in the college's fourth annual Parents Day events on Saturday, Nov. 1.

The day began with an assembly program featuring a welcome by President Nels Minné and an address by M. L. Mariner, Dean of Men. Mrs. Delores Russett Stephan sang a solo. The Warriors-Michigan Tech football game followed at 2 p.m. with a roll call of team members' parents during the half.

Following the game there was open house at the dormitories, and a coffee hour was held at Morey Hall. General Chairman of the coffee hour was Carol King. Several guides and hostesses were selected to show visitors through the dormitories.

College buildings were open from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. for parents and friends to inspect. A water show was presented by the Dolphin Club. James Voorhees was the adviser in charge of the show.

Emil Guenther and his orchestra furnished the music for the Parents Day dance. A floor show was presented at intermission.

This problem of lack of sufficient land for expansion is one drawback WSC faces. Its proposed plan of expanding its campus by 1970 to include an area of about 24 square blocks bounded by Main, Huff, Sanborn, and Sarnia streets is conditional upon condemnation of property involved and approval by the legislature. Rochester would face no such problem.

Mr. Kryzsko urged that the reported Rochester move "be nipped in the bud".

He pointed out that because the college would be consolidated with the present Rochester Junior College, which is supported by local taxes, Rochester residents would not have to pay more taxes to support the new college.

He also said that Winona area residents should recognize the importance of the college to this area's economy and cultural life, and that therefore Winona should acquire land and offer it to the state for the college's expansion under the Federal Urban Renewal and Development program.

"The college has been in existence here for 99 years," Dr. Minné said. "The reported move to Rochester is of concern to our students and faculty, many of whom are from the Winona area, and also to the entire service area from which our students come."

Alumni Tea Hi-lights MEA

The MEA convention held in Minneapolis, Oct. 23-24, included a Tea for Alumni of Winona State. It was held at the Curtis Hotel where about 250 alumni gathered for the event. Guests included Mrs. Lewis Schoening, President of the Alumni Society; Miss Mildred Bartsch, Director of Services to Public Schools, Mr. Floyd Adams, Chairman of Public Relations Commission; and Miss Louise Farner, Emeritus faculty member.

By M. McCormick

The ever-increasing number of traffic fatalities has convinced me that the American people are dealing with this problem in entirely the wrong way. For quite some time now we have seen agencies such as the National Safety Council blanket the country with propaganda designed to make the population recognize the danger of accidents and, consequently, to avoid them. We have seen billboards, posters, and magazine advertisements designed for this purpose. We have heard radio and television announcements remind us that the life one saves may be one's own. All of this, however, has accomplished nothing.

The fact that has been overlooked by the safety propagandists is that accidents always happen to someone else. No one, therefore, concerns himself with something so remote. Safety measures are ignored, cars with over three hundred horsepower continue to sell, the number of accidents steadily increases, and the death toll rises. Clearly, another approach to the problem of accidents is imperative.

To borrow an absolutely meaningless bit of jargon from the Madison Avenue school of contemporary American literature (which is not out of place here because, as you will discover, this is in effect an outline for an advertising campaign), the American public has been made negative-accident conscious and must be made positive-accident conscious. We must first learn to recognize that automobile accidents are going to occur in spite of any measures taken to prevent them. To accomplish this, no major change in attitude but only a slight shift in emphasis would be necessary.

The major step, however, would be to make highway accidents into a sport. In doing this, it must be admitted, we have the example of deer hunting, in which heart attacks and manslaughter are made into a grand game. Yet, it must also be admitted that traffic accidents are a much more complex problem than hunting accidents, and to refine them into a sport would require a correspondingly complex organization.

For example, it must be taken into consideration that not all drivers are alike: some have uncorrected faulty vision, some habitually drive while under the influence of drink, some possess the degree of emotional maturity that forces them to seek satisfaction in exceeding speed limits. All of this would put the physically-fit, intelligent driver at a distinct disadvantage in regard to scoring. The answer would seem to be a system of handicaps as in golf, with the greatest handicap going to the best drivers. This in itself would take a great deal of administrative work. Then too, scoring rules would have to make provisions for the kind of accident, the circumstances surrounding it, and the result. Death of a participant would, of course, disqualify him.

Making a sport out of automobile accidents would require planning, public education, and constant administration, but it would be worth all the effort. It is obvious that nothing is being accomplished towards reaching our present goals. Clearly, the only solution is to change these goals.

Elaine Fuller Receives Grant

Miss Elaine Fuller, a 1958 graduate of Winona State College, has been presented a U. S. educational exchange award by the Department of State. Miss Fuller's grant will enable her to study and carry on research work in modern language education. Starting next February she will be taking a leave of absence from the Milwaukee public schools where she began teaching at the elementary level this September. She will then spend 9-12 months of study in Costa Rica.

The International Exchange Program of the Department of State annually offers from 20 to 30 grants for one year of graduate study in other American republics. This program is designed to increase friendship and understanding between the peoples of the Americas. One or more grantees from the U. S. are chosen by the host government from a panel presented by the U. S. government. Conversely, foreign nationals may come to study in American colleges and universities.

Miss Fuller graduated with special honors from Winona State in June, 1958. During the summer she attended the Na-

Elaine is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John J. Fuller of Winona State College. Dr. Fuller served as consultant on teacher education at Philippine Normal College in Manila in 1955, during which time Elaine and her sister attended Philippine College. Returning to Winona the family traveled around the world with stops at Singapore, Malay, Saudi-Arabia, Egypt, Morocco and several European countries.

COLLEGE COURSE STILL A BARGAIN

"The college course is still a bargain," writes Mr. David Barnett of the North American Newspaper Alliance in an article for the St. Paul Pioneer Press. According to the U. S. Office of Education, the cost of one year's college education averages about $1,500, but budgets have varied from $200 to $5,500 for the school year. Costs are increasing every year, and a college education now costs double what it did in 1940.

The bulk of college costs these days are not tuition fees, but the cost of living. Room and board are the biggest headaches to those on a shoestring budget. On the other hand students fortunate enough to be on "luxury" budgets think nothing of purchasing automobiles, TV sets, and even private airplanes.

Mr. Barnett points out that two-thirds of men students and one-third of women students work their way through college, at least partially. And here's an interesting revelation — women spend less in college than the average male!

About 21 per cent of college students receive scholarships, and these scholarships average a little less than $300 per year. No student, however, pays the entire cost of his education; part is provided through endowments, taxes, and other means.

STUDENT INTEREST LACKING

The motion picture, Bolshoi Ballet, shown at the State Theater on Nov. 11, was first-class entertainment.

The State Theater management feels enough interest was shown in the film to warrant bringing more of this type of entertainment to Winona.

Although attendance was better than expected, the management expressed disappointment in the fact that the three colleges were poorly represented. Adults were in the majority, while the picture had been booked because it was felt this kind of film would appeal especially to the students of Winona. Apparently it did not, and it's hard to see why the colleges did not show more interest in this excellent film.

Mr. Berg, manager of the State, said there are tentative plans calling for the showing of at least one picture per month of special caliber that might appeal to students.

This is a big opportunity for the students of Winona, and it deserves their fullest support.

"Get On The Ball"?

by Merle Jean Peterson

Have you seen Yvette? She's a small, dark girl who has flashing brown eyes and a quick smile. Her full name is Yvette Courtade, and she comes from El Salvador, Central America. El Salvador is the smallest country of Central America, but it is the most densely populated because of its emphasis on business. It has a tropical climate, which means that the people usually wear summer clothes year round. Yvette and her family of father, mother, and one brother live in San Salvador. Her brother is also in the U.S. He is at the University of California where he is majoring in business.

Yvette came to the U.S. two years ago. She flew from Central America to Winona. She attended St. Teresa's College for two years and then came to WSC. Here she is majoring in business. When Yvette came to the U.S. she did not know any English. As she said, "The English language is difficult to learn but the slang is impossible!" Once someone said to her, "Get on the ball", and Yvette was completely mystified. At home she speaks Spanish and understands French.

As to her impressions of the U.S., she thinks the country is big, the people friendly and nice, and the food different... not as spicy as that of San Salvador. The snow excited Yvette. She loves to skate but somehow skiing does not come as easily.

After Yvette graduates this year, she plans to return to Central America to help her father in his office at the International Correspondence School. The friends she has made during her stay in the United States will miss the charming Yvette.

Brown, Nardini All-NSCC Satter, Schneider Make Second Team

Four Winona State College gridders have been named to the All-Northern State College Conference team. A meeting of loop coaches picked 22 gridders plus one utility lineman and utility back for the two honor squads.

Guard Gene Nardini and half-back Dick Brown from Winona State were selected for the first team. Brown is a holdover from the 1957 all-conference squad. End Chuck Schneider and tackle Arnie Satter from the Warriors gained places on the loop second team. All four gridders are seniors.

Nardini has completed four seasons on the Warrior grid team. At 5-10, 184 pounds, he was one of the smallest linemen in a Winona State forward wall which averaged about 200 pounds. Nardini was probably the best all around guard in the conference, playing a top-notch game both on offense and defense. His hometown is Franklin Park, Illinois.

Dick Brown, all-conference back for the second straight year, began winning football awards as a prep at Winona High. As a high school griddier, Brown won honors on the Big Nine, Minnesota All-State and South team in the Minnesota North-South All-Star football game in 1954. For Winona State, the 6-foot, 197-pound runner has operated mainly from a right halfback slot.

Intramurals Just Around The Corner

by John Courtier

With winter coming on, our activities will make a slight change to include indoor sports to give the student at Winona State a chance to see and participate in sports during the winter. An intramural program has been set up. It includes basketball and water polo.

Tests are given to prospective players. Then the captains choose the players that they feel will make up a good team. These teams enjoy a fine time playing. It helps school spirit if everyone gets out and supports or engages in these activities.

Chuck Schneider, hand-capped in the 1957 season after a knee injury in the first scrimmage, gained a first string spot on the Winona State team this year. Only a minor letterwinner last year, Schneider developed into a good wingman on offense and played a sharp defensive game. The 6-2, 200-pound end attended Iowa State as a freshman, then transferred to WSC. His hometown is Adams, Minnesota.

Arnie Satter turned in a good job this season at tackle for the Warriors although hit by several injuries during the season. An All-Hiawatha Valley Conference lineman at Kenyon, the 6-foot, 225-pound tackle played his first year of college ball at Mankato State, then came to Winona after a hitch in the service. He earned his first letter at WSC as an end.

Stan Kuzkuzke, who prepped at Stewartville High of the Whitewater Conference, was a halfback choice on the second all-loop team in his freshman season at Mankato State.

Lowell Glynn, 5' 10", 180-pound Mankato senior, won the Glen Galligan award as most valuable conference player. He also won a spot as utility lineman.

The all-loop first team consisted of eight seniors and three sophomores. Bemidji State dominated the selections with five players on the first team and another on the second squad.

Cagers Out and Hustling

Water Polo

Winona State's intramural water polo games began Nov. 11 at 7 p.m.

There are four teams in the league this year. The captains of these teams are Bill Kuehl, Dave Glazier, Neil Baudhuin, and Gene Nardini. Each team carries a roster of about fourteen players, meaning that there are approximately 56 members in the league. The captains voted to have a two week league with two games on the first Tuesday and Wednesday, two on the following Tuesday, and either a championship playoff game or an all-star game on Wednesday, Nov. 19. The six games on the 11, 12, and 18 of Nov. completed a round robin. The final contest was Nov. 19.

The officiating was done by Mr. Jim Voorhees, with the assistance of the Dolphin Club members.

Winona State was the first college in the Mid-West to adopt water polo as an intramural sport. This year LaCrosse State is starting to have water polo as an intramural event also.

The sport affords an exciting and entertaining time for both participants and spectators.

Matmen Ready

The Winona State College wrestling team will face the heaviest season slate in its history this winter, reports Bob Jones, WSC grappling coach.

All told, the local squad has been tabbed to have a decided edge in the lower weights, and is predicted to do well in the upper division too. The middle-weights are said to be lacking strength in their class, however. The NSCC is supposed to be a really tough conference this year — the strongest ever.

The members of the squad include John DeLozier (Co-Capt.) 123 lbs., holder of second place honors in the NAIA Tournament last year. Then there is Carlton Invitational champ, Doug True, 130. Doug took third place at Carlton. The other co-capt., Glen Johnson, 137, captured second in the conference last year. This boy is unbeaten in dual meet competition. Dean Sanderson also bagged himself a second spot in the conference tournament in his division last year. Other members include Paul Evenson, transfer, ineligible until Jan. 21, Roger Helgersen, Jack Grupa, George Tashima, Jim Sovereign, Dale Vagts, Jerry Wedemeier, Jay Force, and Mike Riley.

Eight lettermen from 1957-58 — plus two players who earned letters in previous seasons — greeted new Winona State basketball coach Joe Gerlach as preseason drills got under way officially at Memorial Hall.

A total of 25 cagers are candidates for berths on the 1958-59 Winona State squad, Gerlach said.

Among the eight lettermen from last season are four guards, two forward-guards, one forward and a center. The four guards are Don Klagge, Bob Welch, Pat Marren and Erv Rickheim. Forward guards are Herb Espinda and Earl Buswell. Don Behrens returns at forward, and Jon Kaiser is back at center.

Other candidates include Jack Wiczorek and Larry Engel, both of whom lettered in previous seasons. Gerlach's list also includes two players from the 1957-58 varsity who did not earn letters. Dave Prondzinski and Lorry Gunhus reported for drills Monday.

Gerlach said he had retained four freshmen after looking over the frosh crop in earlier tryout sessions. The quartet includes Jerry Goetz, Plainview; Fred Klein, Cochrane; Lance Johnson, Pipestone, and Allen Bronson, East Troy, Wis.

Gerlach also has two transfer students who are eligible to compete at the start of the season, Nick Stevens, a center, transferred to Winona State from Rochester Junior College and is immediately eligible. Bob Rogneby, who switched to Winona State from University of Wisconsin last spring, also is eligible. Rogneby, from Cochrane is a brother of Jim Rogneby, UW cager.

Two other transfer students, who do not become eligible until the end of the first half of the school year, promise to be of considerable help to the Warrior cagers. They are Dage Sprute, who transferred from University of Minnesota, and Tom Caulkins, a transfer from Iowa Teachers.

Gerlach announced that Bill Morse, Winona State griddier and cager who lettered with last year's basketball squad, will act as assistant coach and will not play this year.

The new Winona State mentor is expected to use all practice time available to acquaint himself with the squad in preparing for Winona State's opener December 2, against Wartburg College at Waverly, Iowa.

Gerlach who coached last year at Stout State, Menomonie, Wis., said a complete WSC cage roster is not yet available.

Gerlach, Morse Make Up New WSC Cage Staff

Winona State, which will enter its first season under new basketball coach Joe Gerlach, changes over from Minnesota State College Conference to Northern State loop, which amounts to nothing more than the addition of Michigan Tech to the old MSCC. Bill Morse, Winona State senior who has played both football and basketball at WSC, will assist Gerlach.

Kappa Delta Pi

Dr. Joseph Lanigan, St. Mary's College philosophy professor, spoke at the Nov. meeting of Kappa Delta Pi in the Phelps Laboratory School lunchroom.

He said many of us have been assuming a philosophy all our life, living with it without being introduced to it. To study philosophy one should connect it to some subject with which you are familiar. Views on education, politics, work, life and good and evil are all fundamentally philosophic.

Westminster Foundation

At a recent meeting, Westminster Foundation listened to a record of a speech made by Congressman Judd. The congressman made the speech last March at the National Layman's Conference for Presbyterian men. A discussion of religion and politics followed the speech. ## Class Ring Planned

Plans for a school ring for graduates of WSC have materialized. Rings are to be purchased through Josten's of Owatonna. Ring samples and drawings have arrived and are available at Morgan Jewelers. The rings are original and will pertain to this college only. One side of the ring will have the school Torch of Learning while the other side will have the Trojan Warrior Head together with the inscription of the school motto, "Virtute Et Armis."

The plans are to have a purple stone (school color), a spinel amethyst in a Fawcett cut. The finish would be either gold or white gold, and it may be possible to get the ring in either finish. Prices will vary from $22.50 for a girl's ring to $31.50 for a boy's.

YWCA

At the Nov. 4 meeting of the college YWCA, two films were shown. A filmstrip "Answer for Asia" and the movie "Their Future Is Our Future" helped to show what the World University Service is doing to help the people of Asia help themselves.

A bake sale was discussed as a possible money-making project. However, further plans have yet to be made.
